Year in Review: BWxD 2015

Designers! Start. Your. Engines. Better World by Design 2016 is in the works. But before we jump into the new year, we want to look back at 2015 one more time. We've got some unreleased pictures, quotes, and pictures of last year's conference that we wanted to share with you. Check them out and reminisce with us. "My favorite memory from the 2015 conference was getting a chance to see the presenters and ...

Meet the people you don't want to miss this Saturday

This Saturday, March 5, Better World by Design is pleased to present the first event in our Re(Interact) Spring Mini-series. Re(Interact) will consist of a panel, a workshop, and a talk dedicated to reimagining interactions across disciplines and spaces, both personal and global. All of these events are free and open to the public. We're kicking it off by welcoming five panelists who are doing awesome work that engages with these ideas and helps improve interactions within various communities.

Meet our Moderator: Ingrid Lange / RISD Industrial Design

Ingrid Lange is a Senior in Industrial Design at RISD, excited by cross-disciplinary collaborations that lead to a better relationship between people and technology. She's interested in designing virtual and physical experiences that help people understand the present, or allow them to envision a better future. Following graduation in June 2016, Ingrid will be joining IBM Design in Boston, MA, designing at the intersection of cognitive computing and healthcare in Watson Health.

Meet Us

Who we are:

Better World by Design is a student-led initiative at Brown University and Rhode Island School of Design that celebrates interdisciplinary collaboration between designers, educators, innovators, and learners. We envision a world where design-thinking is accessible to everyone in order to catalyze positive change on a local and global scale.

During the year, we facilitate workshops, panels, and discussions that engage in and promote design. Our year builds up to an annual 3-day conference on Brown and RISD's campus, that re-invigorates these ideas and inspires us to continue these conversations.

Our Alumni:

In 2008, Sharon Langevin (Brown '09), Steve Daniels (Brown '09), Tino Chow (RISD '09) and Mike Eng (RISD '09) founded Better World by Design to merge their fields and solve social problems from a holistic perspective. Over the years, Better World by Design has expanded its reach while fostering a close partnership between Brown, RISD, and the Providence community.

Our alums have gone off to do amazing things in amazing places. Scroll below to see leaders and pioneers in every profession we can imagine. If we're lucky, we'll even get to catch up with them at our conference.

Co-Chair | RISD ID, 2019

From the beaches of Naples, Florida to frigid Rhode Island, Cameron is an always smiling student who is enthusiastic about fostering the relationship of the creative and the analytic. Cameron hopes to enter the industrial design program at RISD with a focus on design entrepreneurship and venture capitalism. His best friend is a gourmet burger and truffle fries, and he can often be seen with headphones around his neck with music that's way too loud.

How to contribute:

In addition to standard sponsorship opportunities, the Design Expo takes place on the Saturday of the conference. Sponsors and organizations set up tables and attendees walk around and interact directly with organizations' representatives. It serves as a vehicle for teaching, sharing, and publicity!
